2027 Edition | Materials & Objects

Following the 2025 and 2026 Editions focusing on People and Places, the 2027 Edition is dedicated to Materials and Objects – the matter of history!

Let's Talk History!

As an expert in the history of the English Middle Ages, particularly the art and architecture of faith in England, I am fascinated by relationships between people and things, and how the two interact and shape each other.

Learning events are designed to encourage exploration of historical topics to help us to understand ourselves and each other across time and place.

Sample topics

An Introduction to the English Medieval Parish Church*

The Rhythms of Life! Parish church buildings as markers of place and time*

Fashioning Flint! Architectural Uses of Flint in Medieval England*

A User's Guide to the Medieval Parish Church Font*

Making an Entrance: design and decorum in the church porch*

Squint! The changing form of roodscreens, c.1300-1540*

Orate pro animabus: a detailed look at large-scale memorial brasses*

Wills! A practical introduction to medieval wills and testaments

Facing the People: royal 'portraits' from William the Conqueror to Richard II

Sir Edmund and Lady Joan Thorpe: Norfolk gentry and architectural patrons*

Talks, tours and study events

All topics can be given as a talk or a practical study session. Topics marked * can be delivered as a tour/site visit.

Talks last approx. 45-50 mins, plus 10-15 mins for questions.

Practical study sessions provide a participatory learning experience and last between 90 minutes and 3 hours.

No minimum or maximum audience numbers apply for talks, but they do for tours and study sessions. Please ask for details.

Rates (for events taking place in 2027)

1-hour talk (inc. questions) ... £90

90-minute study session ... £135

2-hour study session ... £180

3-hour study session ... £270

Tours and site visits ... £125 per hour

Notes:

Travel and subsistence expenses are charged in addition. Ask for details.

All learning events are thoroughly researched, planned in detail, and professionally delivered. The fee reflects the amount and quality of work put into preparing and delivering each event.

In person events are preferred; on-line talks can also be provided on request.
